The value of the underlying funds and the income generated from them can go down as well as up, and is not guaranteed. Investors may not get back the original amount invested. The value of investments involving exposure to foreign currencies can be affected by currency exchange rate fluctuations. Past performance is not a guide to future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

- December's market performance reflected ongoing uncertainties heading into 2025. The Fed's anticipated 25bps rate cut materialised but was tempered by a quarterly dot plot projecting only two rate cuts for 2025 - half the expected number in September. Fed Chair Powell reiterated the need for further progress on inflation before cutting rates further.
- Forward indicators of activity were resilient in the US but weak in Europe and the UK, with recession risks rising in Germany and France. UK business confidence collapsed after October's budget, reviving stagflation fears with core inflation at 3.3%, weekly earnings rising 5.2%, and growth in negative territory. China's policy shifts toward monetary easing and fiscal policy provided hope, though Trump's trade tariffs cast uncertainty.
- Markets reflected these challenges with weakness across major asset classes. Global equities, measured by the MSCI World index, fell -1.0% in December while global emerging markets returned 1.5%. Elsewhere, the ICE BofA Global Broad Market index declined -2.4%, with UK gilts and UK investment grade bonds returning -2.5% and -0.6% respectively. US Treasuries and US investment grade bonds returned -0.1% and -0.5%, with the dollar rising 1.7% against the pound.
- The most significant move was in bonds, with longer maturity yields rising due to inflation fears, slower rate cuts, and concerns over rising government debt. The US 10-year Treasury yield ended the year at almost 4.6%, up 100bps since September's rate cut, while UK 30-year bond yields hit a 21st-century high of 5.13%, driven by stagflation concerns.
- Uncertainty remains elevated as markets brace for President Trump's inauguration and the implementation of his policy agenda. Risks from policy missteps, sticky inflation, high tariffs, high government debt levels, and geopolitical tensions weigh on the outlook, while high equity valuations add to investor caution.
- The policy easing cycle is expected to continue, supporting equities, while the recent bond sell-off has improved fixed income valuations. Opportunities lie in US equities beyond megacap tech stocks and in markets outside the US where valuations are generally more attractive. We remain cautiously constructive for 2025.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Prior to 15.04.2024 the Momentum Passive Plus Moderate Portfolio was known as pi Balanced Portfolio. Fact sheet geographic allocation percentages are in some cases based on the normalised (or benchmark) asset allocations of investee funds, as opposed to the actual exposures of those funds at the date of the fact sheet. This reflects the expected average allocation over time which will result from decisions to hold particular funds.

Nothing contained herein constitutes investment, legal, tax or other advice nor is it to be solely relied on in making an investment or other decision. If you are considering investing in the Momentum Passive Plus Portfolios ("Portfolios") clients should consult a suitably qualified and approved Financial Adviser. The performance shown represents performance of the Portfolios that are periodically restructured and rebalanced based on the impact of material, economic and market factors that influence MGIM's decision-making on asset allocation. The Portfolios are applied to client accounts by the platform provider but it may take some time for the client accounts to mirror the performance of the Portfolios. It is for this reason that client accounts may not have achieved exactly the same returns as the Portfolios. The performance of the Portfolios is based on the actual performance of the underlying funds included in the portfolios. These performance figures have not been audited by an external body. The value of investments may go down as well as up and the value will depend on fluctuations in financial markets outside MGIM's control, as a result an investor may not get back the amount invested.
